NEW YORK HISTORY.—Dresden, but for many years United States Consul, 1845-56, Berlin, and Minister to Switzerland, will shortly leave in New-York a history of Prussia, which he has labored for many years.

The novel now running in "Blackwood's," A Modern Minister," is attracting general attention in England as the work of a promising new writer. It is said that, as with the first novel of George Eliot, the publishers themselves have no clew to the identity, or even the sex, of the writer.

An interesting contribution to the literature of journalism is promised by an English photographer, who will issue in monthly parts portraits of leading "Members of the Fourth Estate." Mr. Blenheim Jordan will edit the work, and contribute an introductory essay on the growth of journalism in England.

A new history of the United States is announced from the Quaker City. It is written by a Friend, Josiah W. Leedes, and is intended to reflect those histories which deal chiefly with wars. Mr. Leedes will chronicle the events of the ninety-second school year. Notices, with full particulars, will be mailed to all former pupils who will send their addresses to him.
